The Princeton University Art Museum's annual fundraising Gala has a long history of delighting our senses as we enjoy the company of fellow art aficionados. This year, we invite you to join us as we toast the new Museum taking shape—both tangibly (in steel and heavy timber) on the construction site at the heart of campus and in exciting curatorial and education planning work now moving along swiftly behind the scenes.

In making a new museum at this exciting moment in history, we are committed to shaping experiences that unite extraordinary works of art, fresh scholarship, and diverse perspectives. Our curators and educators are deep in conversation with scholars, artists, source community experts, and community members near and far to shape our future galleries and exhibitions.

Even while that work continues, the Museum remains committed to shaping vital programs in these years of construction, including through our two dynamic gallery spaces in downtown Princeton, Art on Hulfish and Art@Bainbridge, and through hundreds of in-person and virtual public programs offered each year.

Our annual Gala is the Museum's only fundraising event each year.

By supporting Gala 2023: The Museum Takes Shape, you are building the foundation needed to bring the Museum's outstanding work to local, regional, national, and international audiences. Join us in our mission of making the experience of great art available free of charge to all our visitors.
